SUNFLOWER GIRLS.

WHEN she is under twenty the hair on her face is poetically referred to as

"peach down." No gial ever thought so much of her young man that she wouldn't, for the sake of her church, try to rob him at a church lottery.

THE average girl knows but two adjectives, and they are "horrid" and "cute," which she uses on every occasion from describing Shakespeare to the appearance of a corpse.

How we long for a sight of the oldfashioned girl with her sleeves rolled above her elbows and with flour on her nose. Her pies were so good and she was so much more refreshing than the modern girl with a "vocation."

An Atchison girl accidentally dropped a red-hot curling iron down her back the other day while she was curling her back hair, and it lodged under her corset. For a few minutes she did nothing but practice Delsarte and the feather movement.-Atchison Globe.

A Good, Old-Fashloued Winter. My grandpa's always talkin' bout the winters Never nothin' like 'm now, the ones he used to Bob and Billy. When "bad colds" an' rain an' mud made out mothers silly.

"Til tell you what it is, boys, 'd fill me full of To see a good, old-fashloned winter like we had when I's a boy.

Give me ice an' give me enow,
Give me sleet an' give me blow:
Give me cold 'at goes clear through,
Give me sleddin'—sliding, too,
And them's the things, I tell you, 'at makes you glad you're livin'.

good, old-fashioned winter, boys, I hope we may be given."

Since New Year's eighteen ninety-three my grandpa's changed his tune, Funny, how big folks. you know, can change their minds so socul found a society for the protection of Funny, too, how they'll forget all they've said

> An' say jes 'zackly different things, like they For grandpa's growling every day, morning

An' all the folks at our house 'll tell you I am right, 'Cause there's ice, an' 'cause there's snow, 'Cause the natural gas is low, 'Cause the cold jes' goes clear through,
'Cause I say it's bully, too!
Do you s'pose he 'specis to see, though he calls

it "beastly weather," A good, old-fashioned winter an' August come

To a Princess. There is spiendid news from England, And there's spiendid news from France; There's news that's good from Italy, From Russia's broad expanse, But best of all the news that's come,

The dress of woman cannot be Obstructive on the streets; It cannot at the theater

Encumber all the seats.

It cannot lose all grace and charm.

Now that this future queen.

Cut like inverted tops, Or funnel-shaped, or after the Great pyramid Cheops, Since Alexandra fair of Wales, In majesty screne, Has with her sweetly royal frown Looked down on crinoline

Then here's to her of England's realm,

A tiger and three cheers:
Then here's if this fair lady who
Has quieted our fears,
Who's stood for grace in woman's dress,
Long may she wave who's been

His neighbor is not faultless-That neighbor being you. -Tid-Bits "Give Me Not Riches." I want to find a place for me Where nature's harps are all in tune,

A caim, or a still, on life's rough sea.

A place where it's always afternoon;
A quiet, peaceful place somewhere
Between the tramp and the millionaire Where it's not all joy and not all pain: Not too much shine, nor too much shade: Just a place to hide me from the rain; An easy place where the rent is paid, And not too close to the man of care,

It comes with blessedness unto the heart

Our broken hearts cry out for tenderness!
